

THE REDRUTH SCHOOL NEWSLETTER

Issue 160 19th June 2015

Murdoch Day

Murdoch Day was ablaze with colour on Saturday 13th June, with local schools joining in the parade through the main street. Redruth School students had worked hard to create a superb display. The theme was the Magna Carta, and students recreated shields depicting the coats of arms of the barons who signed the treaty. Many students were also involved in the event through other organisations. Mr Martin, Headteacher, said, "I am delighted to see so many of our students supporting their community and enjoying their culture and heritage."

CSI arrives at Redruth School

On Tuesday 6th June, Pennoweth School pupils enjoyed a trip to Geevor Mine with Mr Annear from Redruth School. The transition trip was also supported by Gifted and High Achieving students from Redruth School.

On Wednesday and Thursday morning this week, Year 5 and Year 6 pupils from Pennoweth turned CSI investigators. They learnt to safely light Bunsen burners and then carried out flame tests and other chemical tests to identify chemicals linked to the disappearance of a chocolate bar.

Pennoweth students have now gained both their Primary Bunsen Burner License as well as their CSI investigator certificates. Well done to everyone.

Young Authors

Congratulations to Jemma Price (8L) and Megan Jope (8S) who entered the Cornwall Young Authors Competition back in March. Both girls composed a 500 word story on a topic of their choice which was then entered into the competition. Megan's story, "Bullies", was published in the anthology and Jemma's story, "I am Here", won the silver award for the 11-13 category. Both girls received an anthology featuring all of the winning entries, and Jemma also received a certificate and voucher to celebrate her silver award.

Anthologies are available to buy at a price of £3 each. Anyone who wishes to order one should contact Miss Barratt on rbarratt@redruth.cornwall.sch.uk to place their order. All orders must be placed by 6th July 2015.
