Christmas Lights

Redruth School students stepped out on Saturday 28th November to brighten a blustery evening in Redruth. The students led the lantern procession through the town, accompanied by the School Samba Band and local groups. Following the procession the Christmas lights of Redruth were switched on. (Pictured below, Craig Martin, Headteacher, with students).

On Thursday 17th December the last day of term, the school will be holding a non-uniform/Christmas Jumper day to raise money for a number of charities selected by the School Council. There will also be a Christmas Winter Market with various festivities happening. Students can bring money with them on this day.

Book Fayre

The Scholastic Book Fair has been good fun and very busy. Thank you to everyone who bought books and helped to raise money for the library. The total spent was £432 which means that the LRC will receive over £200 worth of books for our students to read.

We ran several competitions alongside the book fair, each with a prize of a £5 voucher to spend at the fair. Callum Davey and Skylar Kirby won vouchers for reading one million words already this year, which is a fantastic achievement.

Maritime Exploration by Darcey Treloar

On Tuesday 24th November, Year 7 students went to the Maritime Museum in Falmouth. The Maritime Museum has some great exhibitions. We were challenged to make a mini exhibition with an unusual artefact. We enjoyed the 'Viking Voyage' exhibition. Everybody liked the layout; it was very interactive and highly engaging too. Everybody learnt lots of facts, which were delivered in a fun and exciting way.

Finally, we went to the workshop, where there was a team of builders making a gig boat, which was going to be taken to the Isles of Scilly to participate in the gig championships. It was fascinating to see.

We are now preparing our exhibition which will be held on, Tuesday 8th December.
